In the Spotlight!

White Earth Head Start and parents work together to prevent injuries

Last year, White Earth Head Start began providing child car seat training and booster seat installation to parents and students enrolled in their program. Their efforts paid off in December, when a student riding in her booster seat was spared serious injury during a motor vehicle crash. Chantel Hanks (pictured below) was presented with a Ford Boost America! t-shirt and lunchbox by Kay Sunram, Health, Nutrition and Safety Coordinator at White Earth Head Start. Their story can be found at:

"In the Spotlight!" is a new feature in IP News. It highlights injury prevention activities of Tribes in our area. If you have activities that you would like to include, please send them to Diana Kuklinski.

National Tribal Steering Committee for Injury Prevention

The Bemidji Area IHS is proud to announce that Antoinelle Benally Thompson, Injury Prevention Program Manager, Fond du Lac Band, Minnesota, has been selected as our Area representative to the National Tribal Steering Committee (TSC) for Injury Prevention. The TSC has 3 objectives:

- On a national level, raise awareness of, and support for, injury prevention activities in American Indian/Alaska Native communities
- Enhance the ability of Tribes to address injury problems in their communities
- Provide advice and guidance to the Injury Prevention Program of the Indian Health Service

TSC representatives participate in conference calls every 2 months, and two national meetings per year. If you have injury prevention issues that you would like to bring to the Area or national level, please contact Antoinelle at 218-878-2183. The TSC is meeting in Seattle in May to finalize their membership, bylaws, and budget. One major activity that they are working on is linking with the National Indian Health Board and other entities to bring awareness of injury prevention to the national level.

Bemidji Area is now recruiting for an Alternate to assist Antoinelle with TSC activities. The Alternate would participate in conference calls and represent the Area at meetings when Antoinelle is not able to attend. If you are interested in applying to be an Alternate, please call Antoinelle.

Child Passenger Safety Videos

The Confederated Tribes of Washington and the Washington Traffic Safety Commission have teamed up to produce two videos to address child passenger safety in American Indian communities. "Securing our Future—Surviving Vehicle Crashes" and "Cradleboards—A Tradition of Safety and Security" may be ordered online at www.wa.gov/wtsc or call Diana Kuklinski for a copy.
